Production Saw and Machine Acquires Jackson Grinding Company, Expands Integrated Manufacturing Capabilities

Clarklake, MI – January 6, 2026 – Production Saw and Machine, a Michigan-based, ISO 9001:2015 certified manufacturer specializing in production sawing and CNC machining, announced today the acquisition of Jackson Grinding Company, a respected precision grinding provider founded in 1968 and serving Jackson County for more than 55 years.

The acquisition reflects Production Saw and Machine’s commitment to diversifying its business portfolio, expanding into new industries, and strengthening its role as an integrated manufacturing partner for customers across the Great Lakes region.

“Bringing Jackson Grinding Company into the Production Saw and Machine family represents a major step forward for both organizations,” said Jeff Vancalbergh, President of Production Saw and Machine. “By adding precision grinding to our suite of services, we can provide customers with a more streamlined supply chain—reducing lead times, headaches, and costs, all with the convenience of one trusted supplier. Solving these kinds of challenges is what our customers love best about working with us, and this acquisition allows us to do even more.”

Production Saw and Machine will retain the Jackson Grinding name, location, and employees, ensuring continuity for customers and the community while creating opportunities to streamline operations between the two companies. Customers can expect the same trusted service with expanded capabilities. For employees, the acquisition provides stability, expanded benefits, and new career opportunities backed by the resources of a larger organization.

“This acquisition is about building on strength,” said Michael Alexander, President of Jackson Grinding Company. “Together, we’ll be able to deliver even greater value to our customers while preserving the legacy that Jackson Grinding has built.”
